Bible College & Seminary

the fire that refines...

Post Office Box 3122
COLUMBIA, S.C. 29400

Congratulations to the class of 1989. This has been "the year of dying" at Columbia Bible College and seminary, but it has also been the year of resurrection for many.

The refining fire is necessary to separate the dross of self confidence and self-seeking from the pure gold of faith. Only thus do we turn from our own happiness and fulfillment to seeking His pleasure and the fulfillment of His purposes. The painful fire of adversity is God's "severe mercy" to make it possible!

As you move out into the front lines of battle may God make you strong and give you joy in the service of the King. We miss you, but we will celebrate every victory God gives. When you live, we live! Please be sure to keep in touch.

Grace and peace.

Robertson McQuilkin
President

We congratulate you, President McQuilkin for twenty years of faithful service to all of us at CBCS!

Central to the life of any educational institution are the people who work with and teach students. We learn how to live by watching those who are in front of us or who work with us and hold us accountable. Throughout its history, Columbia Bible College and Seminary faculty and staff have held us accountable and have certainly taught us how to live . . . by instruction and example.

On May 18, 1989 four long-time servants of Christ at CBCS were honored on the occasion of their retirement from Columbia. They were recognized for a total of 115 years of consistent and godly service in helping others "to know Him and to make Him known."

The FINIAL staff dedicates the 1989 yearbook to these faithful servants: Mr. William Supplee, Reverend J. Otis Braswell, Mrs. Laura Braswell, and Miss Helen Kornfield.

Mr. Supplee has taught in the music department for 40 years, inspiring students to love Jesus Christ through his teaching and personal commitment. He and his wife, who retired last year, will continue to live in Columbia, and Mr. Supplee continues to serve as Minister of Music at Columbia Evangelical Church.

Mr. Braswell began his service at CBC in the dean of men's office and retires as the Director of Field Education. His quiet spirit and genuine godliness has inspired students and alumni for 39 years. He and Mrs. Braswell have moved to Cades, SC where he is pastoring in his retirement.

Mrs. Braswell, during her 22 years at CBC, has held almost every position available in the Library. She retires as Director of the Learning Resources Center, and leaves our students a far better place for study than existed when she began her work.

Miss Kornfield, after service on the mission field and at Missionary Internship, came to CBCS 14 years ago. Her service as Dean of Women has been an encouragement to hundreds of students. She continues to reside in Columbia and will teach as an adjunct faculty member.

Oh, the flames are getting hotter as I knew someday they'd be, but under the hands of a loving Father, He is refining me, perfectly. And the fire consumes not my person, it's burning away my impurity. It's His way of saying, "I love you," but how strange it is to me.

Steve Camp

There is a "fire that refines," if you let it. For some it comes through academic demands, for some it comes through personal tragedy or illness, for some just the rules are enough, for some financing their education, for some personal relationships on campus, at our local church, back home, or in a Field Education ministry create the impetus which challenges us; serving to refine us to the image of our Lord Jesus Christ. At Columbia Bible College and Seminary, the possibilities for refinement come through a seemingly endless variety of activities. One thing is certain, though it may be difficult to endure at times, no education would be worth the cost, time, or effort of the pursuit if it were not to produce the lasting quality of refinement as fire. Yes, there is a fire here at CBCS. It can refine you.

At times, the process of refinement can be rather comical, even in the midst of trials.

Things far beyond our control seem to put a halt to the activities we believe are so important. What can we do about the weather? Time? Machinery? Personalities? We can always smile.

At times the process of being refined is quite sorrowful, even though joy is present. The closing off of doors to our lives can bring a joyful sorrow. "Farewells" and "goodbyes" are words of endearment full of hope but also uncertainty. The sudden change of the familiar can cause the heat of refinement. When a once-healthy loved one is unable to reciprocate affection, when the cherished family property must be sold, or when other changes come we may find a sadness and joy.

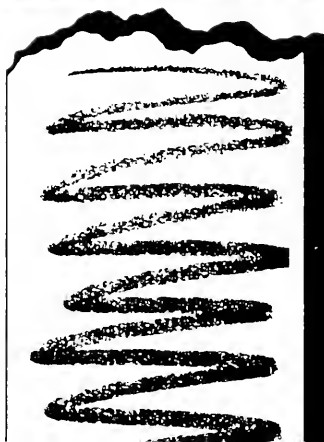

At times the process of refinement seems to be more than we can take, but we do have the promises of God to sustain us. The needs of the world seem more than we can handle, but we trust Him who is in control.

There is no doubt about it, there is a fire that refines us. Sometimes it hurts. Sometimes it makes us wait. Sometimes it causes us to laugh. Along the way God provides the encouragement we need: successes, joy, and grace. In the end we know it is all worth the while. Christ in us is the hope of glory to which we endure refinement.

Yes, there is a fire that refines us. It refines us to the purity of the likeness of our Lord Jesus Christ ... if we let it. The challenges which refine us seem to abound at Columbia Bible College and Seminary. From the first day of registration to the ceremonies of graduation, the Spirit of God moving in our lives through the study and application of His word create that fire that refines us. Fire, it is worth it!

O h, to be in the furnace once again, where the heat is so strong,
where it's so hard to stand. I'm thirsty for some water, I'm hungry for a friend. I know I'm being tested, but it feels like I'm being condemned, in the furnace once again.

What will you remember most about your freshman year at CBC? Will it be the first week: moving into dorms still ravaged by the asbestos removers? Registration, finding classes, the "get acquainted games? Will you remember most of all your friends or your teachers? your classes or what you learned in them? The warm winter or the sudden snowfall (resulting in one bodacious snowball fight)! What will you remember most? Chapels, Field Ed assignments, concerts, or sport teams? What will you remember most is a good question to ask . . . and in asking maybe (hopefully) you'll remember it all!

The Junior class is the smallest of the college classes this year. At times it was difficult to spot them or know what they were up to. Nevertheless, their hearts did beat, their voices did sing, and their actions did speak louder than words! This is a unique group of personalities, determined to go the last mile.

A high-contrast, black and white photograph. In the upper left, a large, dark, leafy tree branch hangs down, partially obscuring the sky. Below the branch, the word "Organizations" is written in a large, elegant, cursive script. The background shows a building with a series of windows on the right side. The overall image has a grainy, high-contrast aesthetic.

I don't know why I'm in this situation except God has put me here. To give strength to my salvation and to weaken all my fears. My faith is being tested, to be perfected takes many years, and when I think of how He loves me, it can bring this man to tears. As He's leading me through, through the furnace once again . . .

Robert L. Barbazette

One of the most important things he has learned while here is balance. If he could do it all over again, he would balance the social and academic areas of his life better.

Tim Barrow

If he could give one piece of advice to the remaining student, it would be this: "Do not take your time here for granted."

James C. Bates

His favorite scripture is the book of Job, which goes right along with his answer to the question, "What fire refined you most at CBCS?" His answer: "Enduring during the 'stinky times.' "

Eleanora (Nonie) S. Bell

After graduation she plans on going to China or elsewhere overseas as a TEFL tentmaker and then working among Chinese university students in the United States.

Ricky Bone

His favorite class was Romans 203. Here's one thing he won't miss when he leaves: "Being involved in more things than I should."

Ian Buchanan (wife: Quirien, daughter: Stacey)

Before he came to CBCS, Ian was a metallurgical engineer. After graduation he wants to teach at a seminary in southern Africa.

Michelle Campo

"God taught me to be about my Father's business rather than my own," she said when asked how she had been refined here. One thing she will NOT miss is Field Ed surveys!

Richard David Carr (wife: Vicky, children: Richard, Sarah, Andrew)

Before coming to CBCS, Richard was a lawyer. He has been a member of the Georgia bar since 1979.

Mario Carrera

This intermural soccer and racquetball player plans to be in Pakistan 10 years from now.

Annette Carter

All-time favorite class: Student Teaching

One thing she won't miss: 6:15 rising

Annalisa Casteen

"The biggest thing God has done in my life while at CBC is saving."

Bernard Chan

He came here one and a half years ago as a transfer student and says if he could do it all over again he would have come here when he was younger.

Rodrigo Chavarria (wife: Emilia, children: Laura, Roberto, Tomas)

"The uncertainty of the next day was a testing fire. My faith was stretched to the maximum, but strengthened also to the maximum. When God opens a door, who will close it?"

Phil Christensen

His advice to remaining students is this: "Don't take yourself too seriously." When he thinks of graduation, the first thing that comes to mind is: "Life begins."

Lance Claggett (wife: Sue, son: Nathan)

The "fire" that refined him while here was trusting God for finances, especially since he was a full-time student and had to trust God to provide for his family.

Vickie L. Clark

The fire that refined her most was perseverance — taking classes while working full time — and trying to relax, too!

Beate Czarny

During her time here, God refined her "through the difficulties and struggles He brought me through — the impossibilities I saw turned into possibilities."

Lawrence Dabeck (wife: Catherine)

His list of extracurricular activities includes: SFMF Regional Chairman, soccer team and husband of the best wife ever!

Julie Dawkins

"I'm heading to the United Arab Emirates with my husband, Mike. We'll spend one year there and are anticipating lifetime service."

Daniel Dreyer

He had this piece of advice for remaining students: "Remember, if it's all Word you'll dry up; if it's all Spirit, you'll blow up; but if you have both, you'll grow up."

J.R. Dockum

It must be his Bible teaching major that makes J.R. say what he'll miss most is his class with Jack Layman and Mary Faith Phillips. One thing he won't miss is turkey Alice.

Terry Lee Fender (wife: Carol, son: David)

He plans on returning to his work in Columbia as a social worker and youth counselor at the reception and evaluation center.

Mike Gannaway

Ten years from now he plans on being a traveling evangelist, preaching Christ crucified around the globe. One thing he won't miss is "some of the veggies at Levell's chow!"

Kim Garrison

When she thinks of graduation, the first thing that comes to mind is: "It was not by my might, but my the Grace of God."

Paul Timothy Gaynier

When asked what fire refined him the most while at CBCS, he replied, "Miss Philips' 'Little Basketball Player.'"

Steve Granski

While at CBCS, God refined him by helping him develop greater tolerance of others and their views. One thing he won't miss is "exams with fill-in blanks."

Fredericka Grollitsch

One thing she'll miss the most is "not being able to learn under these great profs," but she'll have another chance since she plans on attending the seminary after graduation.

Sara Hackman

One of the most important things God taught her while here is this: "I am chosen by grace and not by my works. He is the perfect loving Father."

Ann Hamilton

Her list of extracurricular activities shows an active, rounded life; Secretary of Freshman Class, Secretary of SMF, Girls Softball Team, Chapel Choir, Ambassador Choir.

W.C. Hoecke

His advice? "Take an hour every evening to do nothing but walk with God.

What he will miss the most: "Swimming in the water tower."

What he won't miss: "The green walls in the cafeteria."

David W. Holmes

He said that graduation signals "the return of normalcy." That's a matter of opinion — he plans on being a missionary bush pilot.

Thomas T. Hughey

Wife: Joni

Children: Christina, Daniel, Jaosn, Sarah

Randy Kriby

One of the most important things he learned while here is that God can use him. His advice? "Get your sleep."

Laura Kissel

"If I could do it all over again I would be a little less legalistic in my view of the rules. Have fun (within limits) and be yourself. I'd put more time into developing deep, challenging friendships and less time worrying if I was keeping 'every jot and tittle' of the law (handbook.)"

Todd Kramlich

His favorite class was Progress of Redemption. He listed his extracurricular activities: Grits Bowl and Mime Team.

Dean Lancaster

While here, he learned "to base my faith on facts and less on feelings."

David Lauser

When asked what he would do differently, David replied, "I would have done it mostly the same." That attitude was reflected in his answer to what "graduation" means to him: "Freedom! — But it has been good!"

Gerard R. Mailly

While here he was involved in bicycling, raquetball and Mime Team. When he leaves he plans on going to Moddy Aviation and then fly overseas.

Pamela Mailly

One of the most important things she learned while here was "to accept people as they are and that not all solid Christians have short hair and wear a tie."

Steve Martin

While here he learned that "the will of God is in a relationship, not a place." His piece of advice sounds like it stemmed from a learning experience as well: "Don't ever leave one of Dr. Belcher's classes early without permission."

Kate Mcracken

"Don't give up. The Lord didn't bring you here and forget you. He knows what is expected of you, and He will give you what is necessary to complete the task. Trust the Lord to keep you doing today's tasks and you will then have tomorrow's tasks taken care of."

Debbie McCloy

When asked what she would do differently, she said, "I'd sleep more." Her future plans include: A master's degree in TEFL from CBS, marriage, and China.

Julie Moore

One thing she'll miss when she leaves CBCS is hearing everyone sing in chapel.

Mike Moore

His advice to remaining students is this: "Be real."

Philip Muteta

When asked about his extra-curricular activities, he said, "I tried to play football."

Stephen P. Nachtigall

He plans to go to Naval Officer Candidate School and further his graduate studies. He advises remaining students to "become acquainted with the faculty and befriend them."

William (Bill) Paul Neumann

Bill's diverse background includes a B.S. in geology from the University of Wisconsin and an M.A. in Indian Philosophy from the University of Madras. He says he has been a student all of his life. He wants to be involved in church planting in India.

John Nkola

His all-time favorite class was Western Man and he plans on going to Tanzania, Africa.

Dan Osterhaus

"God is an awesomely loving God, but we must remember He cares more for our character than for our comfort."

Joy Pattison

When she says “graduation,” the first thing that comes to mind is: “Survival. Four long years are finally over!”

Rett Paulsen

Her favorite classes were Romans with Cliff Bedell and Psychology of Justification with Bill Crabb. She wants to teach in a public school in Columbia after graduation.

Amy Peckham

If she could leave some advice to the remaining students, it would be this, “Have integrity; be open to all the different people you meet; be humble and vulnerable.

Terry Peninger

He says God refined him by toning him down. “He makes me analyze things more carefully and look at positive things in people instead of just negative.” His advice: “Be cool; don’t get too stressed out and kill someone.”

Eric Pfeifer (wife: Deborah, children: Ashley, Martin, Erica)

His list of extracurricular activities reads as follows: “OSCA secretary, Small Group Prayer Leader, Assistant to Dr. Scott (Great, Scott, don’t leave that out!), Chairman — Hebrew Propaganda Committee, Family man.

Petria Poole

If she could do it all over again, what would she do differently? “Go slower.” One thing she will not miss? “Books on reserve.”

Bobby Pruitt

His all-time favorite class was “anything Layman teaches.” When he says graduation, the first thing that comes to mind is: “unemployment.”

Carol Rexroth

Her advice to remaining students is this: “Don’t take for granted what is here at CBC — the chance to learn, the deep friendships.”

A.Rios

One of the most important things he learned while at CBC was “that there is an overwhelming need around us.”

Scott Robins

When asked what he would do differently if he could, Scott replied: “As a Presbyterian, I believe it couldn’t have been any other way. Why waste time speculating?” He plans on going to seminary after graduation.

Cynthia M. Roseveare

One of the most important things she learned while here was “that his Word is true and the absolute standard by which I want to live.” Her advice to remaining students? “Though rules may be hard at times, never lose your integrity.”

Michael E. Rowe (wife: Cherie, daughter: Jessica)

After graduation he will work as a full-time youth director in S.C. He hopes to pastor a church someday.

John Ruple

What he will miss the most when he leaves: “Andrea Ornelas” When asked about his future plans, John replied: “I don’t really know, but I do hope marriage is in there somewhere!”

Shadrack Ruto

“God has shown me that what matters is the ministry is what He Himself is doing and not what I am able to do.”

Phil Sanders

While here at CBCS, Phil learned that “things that don’t go my way are not always bad.” When asked where he thought he would be 10 years from now, he said: “I’ve learned not to give answers to this questions — they’re usually wrong.”

Donnie Searce

“God has changed the direction of my life by giving me a broader vision of the world.” After graduation he will be in candidate school and plans to be on the mission field some day.

Faith E. Schaeffer

When asked what she would do differently if she could, this optimistic gal said: “Nothing. It was great!” Except for one thing. When asked what she could NOT miss, she replied, “Dormitory telephones.”

Jim Schrader

Two of the most important things he learned while here was “that prayer unleashes the power of God in ministry and a high level of personal discipline can carry you a long way.”

Stephen Scully

On the serious side, Stephen offered his advice to remaining students; “Seek out those who are deeply hurting and allow God to use you in the healing process.” On a lighter note, Stephen told us what he would NOT miss: “Guys who throw dust pans down the hall late into the night.”

Michel Seiberling

If he could do it all over again, Michael would “spend more time with friends, even if it would mean lower grades.”

Brenda Jean Simpson

He advice to remaining students: “Get an off-campus job. It rounds you out.” When she thinks of graduation, she thinks: “Impossible! Incredible! It can’t be true!”

JoAnn Smith

She offers this advice: “Get on academic privilege as soon as you can. Go ahead, take cuts!”

Bronze St. Sauveur

His advice to remaining students? "Press on. Live up to your title in 2 Corinthians 5:20 — Ambassador for Christ."

Jim Suddath (wife: Jenny, children: Joshua, Joanna, Julia)

"God has taught me that He is massive beyond my ability to comprehend, yet He is near enough to hear my weakest prayer."

John Teeling

He plans on returning to Ireland and still being there 10 years from now. His advice: "Eat you Wheaties."

Lynn Tickner

Her all-time favorite class was "Teaching Bible in the Elementary School" with Mary Faith Phillips. If she could do it all differently, she "would have slept more, studied less and gone out for cappacino more."

Mike Todd

If he could do it all differently, he would have "sought out the lonely and spent time with them" so he offers this advice: "Ask God to give you at least one person you can be really honest with and be accountable to."

Urs Trummer

Sounds like Urs had a little trouble getting enrolled. If he could do it all over again, he said he would "try to get all application material from the beginning." We hope he won't have as much trouble fulfilling his next goal: teaching on the mission field in South America.

Leanne Warne

If she could do it all over again, she says she would have her car here. When asked where she was headed from here, Leanne replied: "Mrs. Paul Needham — August 5, 1989."

John Rankin Wigington

His extra-curricular activities included: Prayer Group Leader, Western Man study tour, Jerusalem Center for Biblical Studies.

Al Wilson

One of the most important things God taught him was "that black or white doesn't matter; only Jesus. He has showed me that there are only two people in this world — the lost and the saved — and we need to reach as many lost souls as possible with the good news of the gospel: He lives."

William Winton

He gave one of the most intriguing answers to the question: "What will you miss the MOST when you leave?" His reply: "Waking up at 6:15 a.m. I promise I'll MISS that very day."

Deborah King Young (Husband: Bobby)

She, too, will miss (?) the 6:15 bells AND the bathrooms (?). Ten years from now she plans to have "three kids hanging on my skirts and perhaps be in Italy with my husband."

As we talk of the fire that refines us, Oh Lord, help us not to despise the heat that we feel, nor the dross that we still see in each other. Though this Finial fell far short of the vision for it, yet the hope remains that as you turn these pages you will find encouragement, joy, and remembrance of the challenges and friends you found during your days at Columbia Bible College and Seminary. May the thought of the smiles and the tears you shared here minister to your heart wherever you are, and whenever you need refreshment. As you turn these pages, I hope you will pray for me. I'll do the same for you. Thanks to all you who helped see me through!

And after you have suffered for a little while, the God of grace, who called you to His eternal glory, shall perfect, confirm, strengthen and establish you. To Him be dominion forever and ever. Amen. 1 Peter 5:10 — 11
